

REMUS MEETS
MANY DEFEATS
AS TRIAL LAGS

Jury Still Remains Unfilled With Many Challenges Left to Both Prosecution and Defense

BOOTLEGGER KING
LOSES ALL POINTS

Scope of Insanity Plea Curtailed and Mrs. Remus' Brother Appears as State Witness.

BY PAUL W. WHITE.

Cincinnati, November 16.—(United News.)—George Remus' insanity plea was defeated and the trial of the bootlegger king continued today.

Judge Charles R. Shook curtailed the scope of the defendant's insanity plea, the judge overruled his motion to subpoena Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, and then, as if to add one final blow to the defense, Mrs. Remus' brother turned up unexpectedly and announced he was ready to aid the state's case by accepting service of a subpoena.

Altogether it was a bad day for "the king of bootleggers." As his own chief counsel, Remus failed to win a single point and when court adjourned both he and Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, Jr., were still without a satisfactory jury.

Many Challenges Left.

Nine men and two women had been accepted tentatively, but both sides still had numerous challenges left and there was no assurance that those 11 would be among the 12 jurors finally accepted.

Remus had changed his coat, blue business suit to a dull gray that corresponded with the weather, and appeared to be steeped in gloom.

On the insanity point it was Remus' contention that there are "a thousand and one" different forms of irrationality and that Taft had made a mistake when he asked a jury if the latter would accept the court's charge of three tests of insanity.

Legal Tests.

But Judge Shook ruled that the question was proper and now Remus' claim of insanity is subject to the following questions:

First—Was the accused a free agent in forming the purpose to kill?

Second—Was he at the time capable of judging whether that act was right or wrong?

Third—Did he know at the time it was an offense against the laws of God and man?

Remus wanted Secretary of Labor Davis to agree that the trial was a farce and that he could prove his insanity. He has named Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., department of justice operative, and his wife as seeking his deposition.

Out of Jurisdiction.

Judge Shook ruled that the nation's capital was not within his jurisdiction and that the motion was unnecessary, as the clerk of the court was assigned to handle subpoenas.

And finally, Harry F. Brown, brother of Mrs. Remus, appeared at the courthouse late in the day, and briefly accepted service of a defense subpoena.

On Monday, Remus had said in an interview that "Brown will not dare show up here." The slain woman's brother was on the spot, however, and commented that "my friend, Mr. Remus, has been shooting at the moon again."

Brown denied knowledge of the whereabouts of any of Remus' belongings taken from the bootlegger's palace, while he was serving a sentence at Atlanta penitentiary.

But George Remus, though his broad, heavy face was set with a frown, hung on bravely. He did down in his chair, checked his gun, and Session Adjourned for Second Time When Laborites Prevent Speaker From Being Heard.

London, November 16.—(United News.)—The House of Commons during debate on a labor motion for a vote of censure of the Baldwin government for neglect of the unemployment and coal problems, today caused temporary adjournment of the house.

In the midst of an uproar from the opposition benches who wanted Premier Baldwin himself to answer the labor charges, the speaker late this afternoon adjourned the sitting until 6 o'clock.

The tumult followed a lengthy address by Ramsay MacDonald, the former premier and labor leader, who introduced the motion of censure. When Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, president of the board of trade, rose to reply, the opposition would not hear him. Renewed disorder later caused a second adjournment seven minutes after the house had been called to order again.

The labor members demanded that Premier Baldwin himself answer MacDonald's charge of neglect.

After the adjournment, the government and opposition ranks stood facing one another angrily and when the prime minister started to leave the house he was surrounded by derisive remarks from the laborites. "Coward! Coward!" was frequently heard.

"Let's clear them out," shouted a conservative member to his colleagues. There were answering challenges from the laborites and finally a labor member took a mock vote on the motion of censure, causing a humorous interruption. The situation which appeared threatening and ugly was averted and amid laughter and cheers, the members dispersed until tomorrow noon.

The committee agreed to contribute about $200,000 about January 1, as the initial payment of the purchase cost, and $10,000 annually for the next four years, and will offer the proposal to the next meeting of the commissioners December 1.

CLUB MANAGER
HELD IN DEATH
OF DIVORCEE

Richmond Woman Fatally Shot in Apartment in Early Hours Wednesday Morning.

WOMAN SHOT SELF.
PRISONER CLAIMS

Country Club Manager Admits Presence at Shooting and Says He Owned Gun.

Richmond, Va., November 16.—(United News.)—The death at a local hospital of Mrs. Elsie Holt Snipes, 28, who was mysteriously shot through the head while in her apartment here early this morning, led today to the arrest of John W. Faison, 31, secretary and manager of the Richmond Hermitage Country club, who carried the dying woman to the hospital with the alleged explanation that she had shot herself.

Faison is charged with being suspected of felonious assault and murder and his bail fixed at $10,000, had not been given at a late hour tonight.

He will be given a hearing in police court November 30.

Police say that Faison has admitted being present at the time of the shooting, as well as admitting ownership of the pistol with which the fatal wound is said to have been inflicted. He is said to have informed hospital attendants that the wound was self-inflicted and that he was innocent of any connection with the young woman's death.

Attendants say that Mrs. Snipes died a few hours after being brought to the hospital without ever regaining consciousness.

Find Pool of Blood.

Examination of the apartment by detectives is said to have indicated that Mrs. Snipes was seated at the time of her fatal wounding. On and beside a chair was a pool of blood; on the floor nearby lay a telephone with the receiver off the hook; besides the chair was a Spanish special revolver with one chamber discharged and on a bed in the room the detectives say they found a small automatic, the magazine fully loaded.

Faison is alleged to have told the police that he visited the apartment early last night and remained after several other guests had departed. Some time after midnight, police said, he declared that Mrs. Snipes left him momentarily to enter an adjoining room to use the telephone. It was then, he said, she fired the fatal bullet which brought him to her aid. It was said that he immediately rushed her to the hospital in his automobile.

Powder Marks.

Coroner J. M. Whitfield made an examination of the body and declared that powder marks about the wound over the eyebrow indicated that the pistol was within 12 inches of the eye, possibly closer, when fired. The coroner said he found several small skin punctures which might have been caused by a needle.

Mrs. Snipes, a teacher of music, is said to have been divorced, and to be the mother of two children who now reside in North Carolina. Faison is married and has several children.

PUSH OGLETHORPE
FUND TO $50,000

$6,500 Donated Wednesday Toward Matching Lupton Gift; Drive Opens Friday.

The first milestone in the Oglethorpe drive for $250,000 to be raised from Atlantans to match the contingent gift of J. T. Lupton, of Chattanooga, was passed Wednesday with the announcement of $6,500 in new subscriptions, boosting the sum pledged to date to $50,000.

The subscriptions received Wednesday were made by 25 contributors to Dr. Thornewell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe; Judge Edgar Watkins, chairman of the executive committee, and J. B. Coppedge, chairman of the citizens' committee, and were volunteered by Atlantans in advance of the actual opening of the campaign, scheduled for Friday.

An effort to obtain the necessary manpower for launching the drive has resulted in 82 civic leaders volunteering their services for work with the citizens' committee. Mr. Coppedge reported.

The committee will be divided into 10 majors and 50 captains, with three men under them, making a total of 210 men organized to put the drive on in the most efficient manner, Mr. Coppedge said.

Campaign Plans Outlined.

At a luncheon meeting of individual workers held at the Wincoff hotel Wednesday, plans were outlined for the campaign and organization of the citizens' committee. A spirit of optimism pervaded the gathering in view of the enthusiasm with which Atlantans seem ready to respond to the challenge thrown out by Mr. Lupton, who offered $250,000 with the provision that people of this city raise an equal sum to aid in development of the Atlanta institution.

The half-million dollar endowment fund is sought by Oglethorpe for the purpose of making it one of the leading educational institutions in the south. Dr. Jacobs told workers in the campaign.

The initial organization meeting of the citizens' committee will be held at the Wincoff hotel with a luncheon Friday at noon. Reports on the progress made up to that time will be made and the concerted campaign actually launched. Mr. Coppedge stated. Thereafter the workers will meet for luncheon each day to report and discuss plans.

Recent Guest Causes Arrest of Woman Leader on Larceny Charge.

Washington, November 16.—(United News.)—A dispute over disappearance of a portrait led to the arrest today of Mrs. Grace Porter Hopkins, prominent Washington clubwoman, on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Lucy W. Crawford, of Rochester, N. Y., charging Mrs. Hopkins with "larceny after trust."

In the warrant, Mrs. Crawford alleges that a rare painting by Thomas Sully of one of her Revolutionary ancestors, which she entrusted to the keeping of Mrs. Hopkins nine years ago has since disappeared.

Washington society was startled by the arrest of Mrs. Hopkins on Mrs. Crawford's charge.

"Begged Me To Shoot Her;
I Did," Says Dying Man

Waltham, Mass., November 16.—(United News.)—"She pleaded with me to shoot her. Finally I did." Himself at the point of death from a self-inflicted wound, Joseph F. Buckley, 23, of Weston, gasped out the story of a New England parallel to England's mercy murders.

"Grace hadn't worked for a year," he told police in halting accents. "She was suffering from heart disease. Her people didn't want her to go out with me."

"But we met last night about midnight. In my machine we drove to Sudbury and parked at the side of a road."

"She was discouraged. She begged me to shoot her and end it all. I refused. She pleaded with me, I would not shoot her. Then she grabbed a .25-caliber automatic I kept under the seat. Before I could stop her she turned the gun against her body and shot herself near the heart."

Shot Her.

"She suffered terribly. She again begged me to shoot her and end her suffering. Finally I did. I pointed the gun at her and shot her."

Buckley paused a moment unable to continue. Then mustering his strength he went on.

"I was dazed. I started the car and drove toward Waltham. I reached Main street and stopped. I turned back against myself and tried to shoot myself in the heart."

Suffering intense pain from an internal hemorrhage, Buckley told further details of his rendezvous with the girl, of shooting her and of the plans he had held of returning with her to his native Nova Scotia.

Then he lapsed into unconsciousness. The girl's parents, shocked by the tragedy, seemed unable to realize their daughter had died.

"She was so happy and carefree last night," said her sister Dorothy. "I can't realize she is dead."

Given Up By Doctors.

For months Grace had been confined to her bed on a sleeping porch. Three weeks ago she had gained sufficient strength to leave her bed but physicians had given up hope of her recovery from the heart ailment and said her death was only a matter of a few months.

Early today, Dorothy went to her sister's bed to help her dress. Bajamas and bathrobe lay on the floor. The bed was empty.

As she hurried to apprise her parents of the telephone bell rang and police informed them that Grace was dead.

Buckley apparently had driven for miles with the body of his dead sweetheart beside him. Finally he drove to Waltham, where he parked his car in plain sight of several persons, delivered a few minutes and shot himself.

Police said he would be charged with murder should he recover, but physicians held slight hope that he would live.

Tiger Flowers
Is Dead After
Minor Illness

New York, November 16.—(United News.)—"Tiger" Flowers, the taciturn negro "Praying Deacon" who formerly ruled the middleweight boxing ranks, died shortly after 8 p. m. tonight in a private hospital here following a comparatively minor operation.

The Atlanta, Ga., battler submitted to an operation for removal of a growth above his right eye at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Although he came out of the either in "fair" condition, he suffered a sinking spell soon afterward and was rushed back to the operating room, where he failed to rally.

Flowers, a deacon in a church at Atlanta, Ga., where he made his home, wore the famous "Tiger" bathrobe that has appeared in rings all over the country when he walked to the operating room this afternoon. After a few breaths of ether he murmured his last words: "If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take."

The man who lost his title to Flowers—Harry Greb—died in a hospital at Atlantic City in October, 1925, under almost the same circumstances. Flowers was beaten for the title in Chicago by Mickey Walker on December 3 of the same year.

The negro battler, one of the busiest of the present-day fighters, won 19 contests this year and seemed due for another chance at his old title.

Beavers Authorized to Close Pryor and Central to Allow Progress of Work.

Removal of tracks preparatory to construction of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts will begin this morning or Friday, it was announced Wednesday night by B. E. Brooks, of the Brooks-Callaway company, contractors for depression of tracks over which the bridges are to be constructed.

At the same time Mayor I. N. Ragsdale authorized Chief of Police James L. Heaters to close Pryor street and Central avenue from Decatur to Alabama streets Monday morning, the date on which giant steam shovels will begin excavation.

Fire Chief William B. Cody was notified that the streets would be closed at that time in order that engines and other paraphernalia can be routed around the closed area.

Through Florida trains of the N. C. and St. L. and the L. & N. railroads will be rerouted through the Terminal station while the track lowering work is being done in the area of the Union station, according to announcement of J. B. Hill and Charles Wickersham, chief executives of the roads, respectively.

DEFIED SUMMONS
AS TEAPOT DOME
TRIAL WITNESS

Fled to France, Where He Still Remains, But Will Fight Case Through Attorneys.

HEARING IS SET
FOR JANUARY 6

Property Will Be Forfeited If Blackmer Loses Case—To Be Held Pending Outcome.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, November 17.—(United News.)—Action has been started to make H. M. Blackmer, oil man and friend of Harry F. Sinclair, pay the price fixed by law—$100,000—for his refusal to come back from Paris and tell what he knows of the inside of the Teapot Dome affair.

A court order was issued today for seizure of Blackmer's property to the extent of $100,000 as provided under the recent law forced through by Senator Thomas F. Walsh, of Montana, the original Teapot Dome investigator, to meet the Blackmer case. This probably will be arranged through a formal deposit of $100,000 by Blackmer's attorneys, Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York and now counsel for the United States Steel corporation.

It is understood that Blackmer, who is remaining in Paris, will defend his course on the claim that the Walsh law is unconstitutional. January 6 was set as the date for a hearing to determine whether Blackmer was in contempt. His property will be held in the meantime and forfeited if he loses.

Defend Government.

This drastic law was passed because of the indignation in congress over the way Blackmer and another of Sinclair's oil friends, James E. O'Neill, defied the efforts of the government to get them to testify as to certain phases of the Continental Trading company oil deal.

They were parties to it and $230,500 in Liberty bonds, bought with the profits of the deal, were deposited in a safe deposit box a short time after the Teapot Dome lease was signed with Sinclair.

But when the government sought to compel them to testify, they fled the country. O'Neill has been hiding in Europe so successfully that American subpoena-servers have been unable to find him. Descriptions have been sent to all American consular offices in Europe, and his mail has been watched, but he has eluded all attempts to find him.

Blackmer Found.

Blackmer was less successful and after a long hunt, American officers found him in a train in France, served the subpoena on him and seized his passport warning him that he could not get another one unless he came back.

SOUTH GEORGIA ROAD MEET SET

Brunswick, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—For the purpose of deciding upon some action for the immediate hard-surfacing of the highway between Brunswick and Macon, a meeting of representatives of all counties between these two cities will be held at McRae on November 25, it was announced here today.

The meeting may result in a revival of the old Macon-Brunswick Highway association, which accomplished so much during its existence, and which was partly responsible for the construction of the drawbridge over the Ogeechee river near Lumber City. There are now many miles of paved highway between Brunswick and Macon and some additional projects are now under construction. At this meeting ways and means will be discussed for launching a campaign for the hard surfacing of the entire stretch. At Macon the highway connects with the hard-surfaced road to Atlanta and other north Georgia cities. It is expected that Macon will be represented at the McRae meeting.

Officers Meet.

Officers of the 122nd infantry held their regular weekly luncheon Wednesday at the Ansley hotel in the rainroom. The gathering was presided over by Colonel Charles H. Cox.

Winds, Colder Weather Due During Today

Light rains scheduled to descend upon the city early this morning will give way before brisk westerly winds and clear sky in the afternoon, according to C. F. von Herrmann, weather forecaster. A drop of ten degrees in temperature will accompany the change. Mr. von Herrmann predicted.

Weather conditions throughout the state are due to follow those predicted for Atlanta.

In 1904 he won the gold medal for penmanship at the St. Louis world's fair.

N. A. P. S. Dramatic Club To Present Play Tuesday

"With this ring," or words to that effect are herewith voiced by a trio of North Avenue Presbyterian school players who have leading parts in "The Elopement of Ellen," to be staged next Tuesday night at the Georgia Tech Y. M. C. A. The bride is Miss Thelma Firestone, the groom, Miss Eloise Martin, while the parson is Miss Frances Wolford.

Everybody knows how collegians will race for the altar for no reason at all—but this new "Elopement of Ellen," said to be showing at the North Avenue Presbyterian school, is nothing to view with alarm. It's just another box office riot scheduled to hit the boards at the Georgia Tech Y. M. C. A. next Tuesday night. "In originality of theme, racy dialogue and rich characterization, the play ranks with the best efforts of the professional stage," says the young lady who, as chairman of the Cecilia Dramatic club's publicity committee, is handling the press release. "Ellen, a comely coed, wishing to investigate the servant problem—a worthy ambition—gets a position as a maid, and finds herself in the service of the newlywed parson. The groom's brother shows up as a boy friend of the man in the masquerade."

They find that one of the surest ways to increase your span of life is to keep the intestines cleansed of poisons due to wrong habits of living and eating and to delayed elimination. They find everybody in danger of this condition—everybody suffering from it at times.

REPORTS FEATURE METHODIST MEET

Valdosta, Ga., November 16.—(P.)—Bishop W. R. Beauchamp in presenting Dr. T. J. Wardle Stafford, British clergy leader, to the South Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church south, today called attention to the fact that Georgia is the only state in America where John Wesley, founder of Methodism, "lived and labored."

Dr. Stafford said this is the first conference of the Southern Methodist church that he had visited. Dr. W. A. Cooper, of Orlando, Fla., secretary of the church hospital board of Florida spoke tonight. At the meeting yesterday Rev. W. F. Smith, of Quitman, was re-elected secretary with the following assistants: Rev. T. H. Thompson, of Fort Valley; Rev. J. A. Smith, of Macon; Rev. W. A. Mallory, of Unadilla; Rev. J. F. Snell, of Reidsville, and Rev. C. W. Curry, of Valdosta.

By special resolution the conference telegraphed Bishop W. A. Candler congratulations on the recent celebration of his seventieth birthday and his fiftieth marriage anniversary.

Bishop Beauchamp presented, on behalf of the ministers and laymen, a handsome gold watch to the Rev. C. W. Curry who has completed a successful quadruple as presiding elder of the Valdosta district.

Rev. T. T. Budd, of Macon, who has held the superannuate relation, was today made effective.

May Be Retired. Rev. C. C. Boland, of Merrillville, located at his own request. Rev. O. L. Evans, of Plains; C. S. Martin, of Baxley; W. E. Arnold, of Hazlehurst, and I. R. Kelly, of Facedale, had their names referred today for the superannuate relation.

These will increase the number of superannuated preachers of the conference to 34. The report from the American district shows 464 additions on profession; churches completed at Leslie and Edison; $10,423 raised by woman's missionary societies; $128,719 for all purposes.

The Columbus district reports every charge paying its own assessment; a new church organization at Wynton; 400 members on profession.

The Cordele district has had 579 additions on profession, $3,000 raised for missionary maintenance and four Sunday school institutes.

The Rev. Reese Griffin reported 553 additions to the churches in the Dublin district, genuine revivals and two fine camp meetings.

The Macon district reported 890 additions on profession, $43,000 raised for missions, the district leading in teacher training work and Epworth Leagues and woman's work in fine condition.

Rev. W. H. Budd reported every mission charge in the McRae district becoming self-supporting, ground broken for a new church at Baxley, 600 additional members on profession. The report from the Savannah district showed splendid revivals, 500 additions by profession, finances almost 100 per cent.

The Thomasville district reported $100,000 spent on church buildings, finances in excess of last year and 236 credits in teacher training.

Rev. C. W. Curry, reporting for the Valdosta district, told of 734 additions by profession, a new educational plant at Tifton, 95 per cent in finances.

Waycross district reported steady increases along many lines with a spirit of optimism prevailing everywhere. In making the Waycross district report, Presiding Elder N. H. Williams said that 40 per cent of the circuit preachers of the South Georgia conference are bankrupt.

He made an appeal for aid for these ministers who are serving on circuit or mission charges.

Declaring that the youth of Atlanta is over indulged by lenient fathers and mothers, resulting in an astounding display of indolence and delinquency, Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, speaking before the Atlanta Masonic club Wednesday, quoted from the recent grand jury presentment to show the danger confronting future citizens of Atlanta.

The city executive and Rev. W. W. Memminger were principal speakers at the luncheon given by the Atlanta lodge of Elks at its new home, with members of the Masonic club as guests. In his talk, the mayor stressed the need for better training of children in the home, citing this as the only solution to the prevalence of crime among minors.

Dr. Memminger, in his talk following that of Mr. Ragsdale, characterized the brotherhood of men, which he said was the basic factor in both the Masonic and Elk fraternal organizations, as the one thing upon which all the building of civilization in the past has rested, and as mankind's main hope for the future. B. C. Broyles, secretary of the Elks club, who presided at the luncheon, Turner Fitten, exalted ruler, and Gordon Hardy, chairman of the house committee of the Elks and a charter member of the Masonic club, made brief speeches of welcome to the Masonic guests.

Julian Boehm, president of the Masonic club, called upon Dr. C. N. Hughes, past president, to respond to the Elks' welcome.

Entertainment for the program was furnished by the Elks' quartet, accompanied by Sonja Hopkins, selections by Mrs. Herbert Hopkins, accompanied by Miss Perkins, and community songs.

LT. COL. STRAYER HERE FOR SURVEY OF 4TH CORPS AREA

Lieutenant Colonel Thorne Strayer, of the inspector general's department in Washington arrived at Fourth Corps area headquarters, Fort McPherson, Ga., Wednesday morning for the purpose of making a survey of the economic conditions in this corps area with a view to determining whether or not expenditures are justified by the results accomplished.

Lieutenant Colonel Strayer will be the guest of Brigadier General H. O. Williams, Fort McPherson. He will probably complete his survey on Saturday, November 19, area headquarters states.

RABBIT WITH FIVE LEGS IS KILLED BY WINDER HUNTER

Winder, Ga., November 16.—(Special.)—A freak in the form of a fully developed rabbit with five legs was being shown at Winder today by Grady Segars, who lives five miles east of Winder. He said the rabbit was shot Tuesday morning by Roy Steel while hunting on Beech creek, near his home.

Besides being normal in size and shape, each of the five legs was fully developed. The fifth leg was located just left of the rabbit's tail on his hip. From its position it appeared to be shorter than the other two hind legs, but upon examination, all three hind legs were about the same in size and length.

Segars attributed this fifth leg to the fact that they were training such fine rabbit dogs in his community that rabbits needed this extra leg to keep ahead of them. He said this rabbit was shot and not caught by a dog.

Get Weight on Your Skinny Body

New YEAST with IRON adds pounds of weight. Quick results—or pay nothing.

If you are many pounds underweight, have a puny, poor complexion, tire easily and have little appetite, then you need the good solid flesh and healthy vigor that IRONIZED YEAST can give. With IRONIZED YEAST thousands of men and women have built themselves up from skinny weaklings to strong, healthy people. It can do the same for you.

You Need Yeast to Gain Weight. IRONIZED YEAST is a tonic in one—weight-building yeast and strengthening iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial.

This yeast is treated with iron taken from fresh vegetables—spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is ironized in this way is it most effective—for iron is needed to bring out the weight-building values of Yeast. By this formula IRONIZED YEAST gives you results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

No wonder you get pounds of solid flesh in 2 or 3 weeks and look more attractive. IRONIZED YEAST gets to the source of the trouble. It builds up the blood, brings strength and richness to the blood. Ugly pimples vanish and you get a nice, healthy color. IRONIZED YEAST is a pleasant-tasting—60 to a bottle. Safe for everybody. Does not upset the stomach, nor cause gas or bloating.

The Amazing Adventures Of Anarchist Aber

By Lawrence Aber

As Told to Ben Cooper, Staff Representative of The Constitution. Copyright, 1927, by The Constitution.

CHAPTER VII.—CIVILIZATION'S NARROW ESCAPE.

SYNOPSIS.

In previous installments of his amazing and thrilling narrative, Aber traced his ancestry to the British peerage and told of his birth in 1880 in Wales. Deserting from a British naval schoolship, he roamed the streets of New York for a time and enlisted for the Spanish war. Following the Cuban conflict, Aber went to the Boer war in South Africa and was one of the defenders of Ladysmith.

After the Boer war, Aber shipped around Cape Horn and deserted his ship in the Fiji Islands, joining up with a trading schooner. He turned up in Manila later, and after being involved in a shooting affray, escaped to Sulu, where he professed Mohammedanism and married one of the daughters of the sultan of Sulu. His story tells of leading Moro troops against American soldiers, and of enlisting in the Canadian army and going to France.

After a brief service with the Canadians, Aber came back to America, and then went to Mexico where he became a member of Villa's army. His experiences in Mexico included service in the American troops as a Mexican spy.

CHAPTER VII.

Civilization's Narrow Escape.

Although the world war was not exactly the place for a soldier of fortune who wanted money with his adventure, the late months of 1914 found me enlisting in the Canadian forces at the British consulate at El Paso, Texas. I was sent to St. Thomas, Ontario, and thence to London, Ontario, from there to Valcartier, Quebec and on to England in the Royal Naval Auxiliary Service.

I was on board the Royal Edward en route to Port Said to pick up Australian and New Zealand, the Anzac forces, when the vessel was torpedoed in the Mediterranean shortly after leaving Malta. Talk about your horrors of war! Three hundred and fifteen men were killed outright. Some of us escaped in a life boat and after drifting for 16 hours were picked up by a French torpedo boat. I went back to England and was sent to France, and this time right in the thick of the front line fighting. Gassed and severely wounded in a brush with the Hun at Ypres I was sent to LaHarve, France, where a big hospital had been established in the Hotel de Villa. Here the physicians worked so fast that they would cut legs and arms off and throw them out of the window. 500 WOUNDED MEN.

Recovery followed, and I was assigned to the hospital ship Queen Mary, going to England, as a sailor. The hospital ship was supposed to be safe from enemy attack and to identify it it was brilliantly lighted. In spite of this a torpedo struck and the ship went down with more than 500 wounded men. I was standing on the deck with a life belt around me when the ship sank into the icy water under my feet. I floated like a baby ever this, and after being picked up I decided that I had better get out of this war so I asked for my discharge and came away. Why should I fight in a war that was wrong from every angle, where there was nothing to be gained, and only civilization to be lost. Remember that I was a brute who made a living by fighting, and also remember that I only fought for money. It was a notable fact that the professional soldier of fortune stayed away from France.

Due to pneumonia contracted from exposure to cold in the sinking of the "Queen Mary," I was weak and wobbly about this time, but after recovering fully I went to Mexico, as I have related in a previous chapter and the world war saw nothing more of Lawrence Aber until I went back to England as civilian.

A BLOODLESS CAPTURE AT SEA.

In keeping with a plot that had been arranged I shipped on the Greystoke Castle for Brazil as a ship's officer. Everything ran according to schedule, and the German raider, the Adler, commanded by Count Von Luckner, ran across us and captured the ship without a fight. As "prisoners" we were landed by the raider at Bahia Blanca, Brazil, from where we were sent to England as consular passengers. The entire episode was a put-up job. We deliberately surrendered to the Germans and I always believed that the American steamer Cyclops went the same way.

The line that sank ships under me was not through yet and when I shipped as master of the Coniston Water out of Cardiff, Wales, we were torpedoed off the Island of Lewis on the coast of Scotland. We were in the devil of a fix for we could not land on small boats on account of the tide rips. I am the only survivor of that ship and how I was saved is a mystery I have never solved. All that I know is that a patrol boat picked me up on a small rock along the coast, stark, raving mad, and I was sent to Canada, where it was a long time before I knew what was what.

As the result of my experiences in the early days of the world war I was awarded the Order of Leopold, of Belgium, and the Croix de Guerre of France as well as the medal in the Italian government. The Order of Leopold was given me for saving the life of a buddy named Harding at Neu-Chapelle. Harding had been hit in the abdomen and I picked him up and dragged him into our lines. In the same case the Croix de Guerre was given me for remaining under shell fire for five

ORDERED TO ST. LOUIS IN DYNAMITE PLOT.

In the states I was ordered by soviet agents to go to St. Louis, Mo., to take part in a gigantic plot to blow up every bridge on the Mississippi river. I enlisted in an outfit at St. Louis, it being the plan to have red agents in the companies guarding the bridges in order that we might be able to execute the plot. Nothing came of this, however, as about that time Russia fell, the soviet rose to power and the plans in America had changed. Official Washington was dumbfounded and an order for the arrest of every known radical was given. I fell into the net and bargained for my release, being compelled to give away certain secrets in return for freedom. During the remainder of the war I was in the United States naval reserve forces and my service was excellent.

The continuous strain finally got in its effect and set me crazy, and when peace was declared I was confined in St. Elizabeth's Federal Insane Hospital in Washington. In my file of the United States navy's bureau there is a letter signed by very high official which commends my service and orders that my radical activities be ignored. Still, even then, trouble cropped up. The doctors in charge of my case kept asking questions and to stop them I had to lie. The only people in the world that I fear are the physicians in these hospitals. They ask questions. If you refuse to answer, they dope you with medicine until you do. The veteran's bureau managed to have a guardian appointed for me and all of my personal property and money amounting to around $10,000 was taken from me. My wife had died in the meantime, and my daughter was in need. As a father I would help her, so I escaped from the hospital and turned up in Peru.

YOUTH, 11, CRUSHED TO DEATH BY POLE

His head crushed against a stone wall by a telephone pole that swept across the sidewalk as the truck on which it was being transported turned a corner, Lawrence Britt, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Britt, Jr., died Wednesday morning before an ambulance could reach the scene of the mishap. The youth was on his way to school and was nearing the corner of Dahlgren street and Arkwright place when he received the fatal blow.

Reports of the accident were furnished by the Georgia Power company, whose truck was hauling the pole that struck the Britt boy. The mother of the boy, an invalid, was prostrated when the news reached the home at 1262 East Fair street, East Atlanta, it was said.

The driver of the truck, W. H. Theilfeld, told officials he was not certain whether the boy was on the sidewalk or starting to cross the street, as he did not see him before the accident. W. B. Burtis, a fireman, who was riding on the truck, reported that he saw the boy's danger and shouted a warning for the child to drop to the ground. The pole which struck the boy was resting on a trailer connected behind the Power company's truck.

In addition to his parents, the boy is survived by two sisters, Celia and Henrietta Britt, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Britt, Sr., and Mrs. M. A. Rice, who was a pupil of the Whiteford Avenue school.

Chest Workers Make Final Appeal for $60,000 Needed

Hundreds of Atlanta men and women, called by telephone yesterday in the appeal to complete the $600,000 fund declared absolutely necessary for effective operation of the 35 agencies of the Community Chest in the coming year, were told that Atlanta, while looking to its social welfare agencies to perform its work of charity relief and human reconstruction, has never completely fulfilled its obligation of supporting those agencies.

"We are looking for a chance to show what the Community Chest and its agencies can do in constructive helpfulness and preventive charity when its program is not hampered, as it has been every year since 1923, by failure to provide all the money necessary," was the burden of the calls.

$440,000 Raised. Of the $600,000 declared by the budget committee to be the minimum amount for effective operation of the chest agencies, $420,000 was raised by campaign workers in the public appeal which closed November 15. To this has been added $20,000 in contributions received since that date, making $440,000 available.

The difference between complete effectiveness of Atlanta's charity work and its partial failure is only $60,000," said Roy P. Gates, director of the Community Chest, outlining plans for the post-campaign appeal.

"There is a definite amount of work in the field of charity, direction and development of youth, reconstruction of failures and delinquents, and development of character and independence to prevent future disasters and to relieve future drains upon the public."

"The work of the chest experts of the Community Chest. It has a right to expect it, for the Community Chest is nothing more than the machinery for public service. The Community Chest performs economically, systematically, with as little expense as possible, with an elimination of waste and publication with a vast reduction of 'overhead,' the work which

FIGHT FILM WARRANT TO BE RULED ON TODAY

A petition for review of the decision last week of United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter, in which the commissioner upheld the legality of the search warrant on which the Dempsey-Tunney fight films were seized at the Metropolitan theater, will be heard this morning by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley.

Following seizure of the films by United States Marshal Louis H. Crawford under a warrant charging conspiracy to violate a federal statute which prohibits interstate shipment of fight films, the theater and Frank H. Hicks, who was named in the warrant as an alleged conspirator, sought to have Judge Sibley return the films to the theater.

Judge Sibley refused to order the return of the films, however, and the matter was then taken before Commissioner Ledbetter for a hearing on the legality of the warrant. Judge Ledbetter ruled that the warrant was entirely legal, and counsel for Hicks and the theater then filed a petition with Judge Sibley for a review of the commissioner's ruling. Branch and Howard represent Hicks and the Metropolitan theater.

ATLANTA WARNED TO BEWARE SUAVE "LINEN SALESMAN"

Christmas is coming—and those sharp gentlemen who ply an apparent innocent trade from door to door selling "rare linens" are back to take advantage of "sucker season."

The Atlanta Retail Merchants association has received first reports of the advent of the "linen" boys. One of them already has sold a Morning-side housewife a spread guaranteed to be of remarkably high quality, which turned out to be a very different article.

As a result, the association Wednesday broadcast a warning to Atlantans to be on their guard against the itinerant peddlers.

"Watch your financial step as Christmas draws near," is the watchword from the association's offices.

WHY All This Mystery About CIRCULATION?

VERBAL or specially prepared statements of circulation are often confusing to the advertiser—simply because they are made under the influence of personal salesmanship. The issues involved in "which newspaper is the best advertising 'buy'" need not be settled in this way. There's nothing mysterious about circulation! You don't have to take anybody's word for it! There's a way you can decide the matter on a scientific basis!

Figures and facts supplied by the Audit Bureau of Circulations enable the buyer of advertising space to obtain from one source the information needed to place his advertising most advantageously. Ask the advertising departments of the three Atlanta newspapers to show you their last Publisher's Statements to the A. B. C.—for the period ending September 30th.

POWER COMPANY OPENS SALE TODAY ON ATWATER KENT

Some 300 or more families in the state of Georgia will own an Atwater Kent radio receiving set within the next two weeks if plans made by the Georgia Power company do not miscarry, according to a statement issued by company officials Wednesday on the eve of one of the greatest radio sales ever attempted by any central station in the south.

The sale which opens today, the statement continues, will carry through a two weeks' concerted state-wide drive to place 300 Atwater Kent radio receiving sets in as many homes. Special sales of one kind or another have been often attempted by central stations, the announcement states, but never before on so wide a scale.

It is expected, officials say, that at least 100 of the sets will be placed in Atlanta homes with the balance in the various cities in Georgia served by the Georgia Power company.

As a special inducement to buyers the sale offers a specially designed floor or bridge lamp, to be used in connection with this big sale, which is expected to make a complete survey in Atlanta and other Georgia cities, calculated to show with some definiteness just how many homes are equipped with radio receiving sets.

Cotton Future Contracts Ruled Legal; Supreme Court Grants New Trial to Layton

Court Holds That Law Providing Penalty for Failure to Deliver, Is Constitutional.

Contracts for future delivery of cotton and other commodities when actual delivery of the commodities is contemplated are legal in Georgia and the act of the Georgia legislature passed in 1906 "properly construed" is designed to apply a penalty to deals on margin where there is no delivery contemplated or made, according to a decision handed down Wednesday by the supreme court in the case of B. L. Layton, local manager of the brokerage firm of Penner and Benne, who was granted a new trial following his conviction in the Fulton superior court. He was convicted of dealing in futures on margin and was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment.

The supreme court held that the law passed in 1906 is constitutional as far as it applies to dealing in futures on margin is concerned, but ruled that it does not apply to sale of cotton for legitimate delivery even where such delivery is fixed for some future date. The court held also that cotton contracts for such future actual delivery of cotton are legal.

No other phases of the law were passed on by the supreme court as it remanded the case for a new trial because of the refusal of Judge John D. Humphries, trial judge, to grant certain instructions to the jury asked for by the defense. The case was appealed on this point and the supreme court held that the trial judge erred in declining to give the instructions asked.

These instructions, which applied to the question of "personal delivery" of the cotton sold under contract for future delivery are as follows:

"An executory contract or agreement for the sale of cotton or other commodity to be delivered at some future date, is valid and lawful and does not constitute a sale of cotton at the time of making the contract, the seller has not the cotton or other commodity in his possession, and he is not obligated to deliver it, and has no expectation of acquiring it, otherwise than by purchase at some time before the day of delivery."

When the law under which the defendant was indicted speaks of actual delivery it does not necessarily mean personal delivery, and a contract of the kind referred to in the law would be legal, though neither party contemplated personal delivery, it does not necessarily mean delivery by agent, or broker, or by someone else who became a substitute in the contract.

Dissenting Opinions.

Dissenting opinions were written by Chief Justice Richard B. Russell and Justice James K. Hines. Justices Marcus Beck and Samuel Atkinson dissented from the ruling in one of the footnotes of the decision. Layton will get a new trial under the ruling of the supreme court.

The court interpreted the "cotton futures" act of the legislature as follows:

"The act of 1906, properly construed, does not apply to contracts for future delivery where there is no intent that the commodity bought or sold shall actually be delivered, but make penal transactions on margins for future delivery where it is the intention to gamble on fluctuations of the market, that is, where there is no intent to make actual delivery, and when it is the intention or understanding of the parties to receive or give the difference between an agreed price and the market price at the time of settlement."

NICARAGUAN DENIES MEXICAN BRIBE CHARGE

Mexico City, November 16.—(AP.)—Unnamed interests are attempting through publication of false documents in some United States newspapers to foment ill feeling, not only between Mexico and the United States but between all of the Latin-American countries and the North American republic, in the opinion of Dr. Pedro J. Zepeda, representative in Mexico of the Nicaraguan liberal party.

Dr. Zepeda denied categorically that he or any other of the Nicaraguan liberals had ever received any money directly or indirectly from President Calles or the Mexican government as alleged by the Hearst newspapers. He declared that any documents intended to prove this were pure fabrications.

"I believe that publication of such false documents," Dr. Zepeda told the Associated Press today, "is an attempt to prevent Mexico and the United States from adjusting their differences and to continue the friction that has existed between the two countries."

"We intend to give all groups a chance to be heard," Chairman Shaver said. "Nobody will be shut out. We want this to be an open forum where all views can be discussed."

Al Smith, McAdoo, John W. Davis, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Governor Hughes, and others are expected to speak. Speeches probably will run until well after midnight and every phase of party issues will be discussed.

There is much discussion as to what will happen to the two-thirds rule at the next convention. Chairman Shaver does not believe it will be abrogated. Other party leaders differ. Sentiment seems sharply divided and the question probably will be settled only after a hard fight at the next convention.

A number of cities have indicated a desire to obtain the democratic national convention. Among those mentioned are Miami, Boston, Atlanta, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Paul, Denver, San Francisco, and Houston. Some of these cities stand little chance, but they are interested and their names were included for this reason. Much will depend upon where the republicans go. They will decide a month before the democratic convention.

Last night the republicans listed candidates seeking the convention. The republicans said they would ask only that convention expenses be written by the city getting the convention. Democrats have announced no policy in this regard but in 1924 probably this time they will be guided to a great extent by the city which provides the largest cash chest.

In 1924 the session at which the city was selected turned into a bidding contest with Tex Rickard outside in the corridor boosting the ante for Madison Square Garden every time another city raised its bid.

However, no amount of money offered by New York would be likely to draw the convention there again. Memories of 1924 are too painful.

The middle west is favored with Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago as the best bets.

Titled Husband

Beat Her With

Chair, She Says

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Bridgeport, Conn., November 16.—The duchess of Tolbronia, the former Elsie Moore, shipbuilding heiress, of Greenwich, Conn., took the stand today in a long deferred divorce suit against the Italian nobleman she married in 1905 and testified he broke a piece from the back of an antique chair and knocked her unconscious with it when she pleaded with him to cease his illicit relations with his beautiful mistress, Maria Lorenzoni, in Rome.

The American heiress who married a title, frankly portrayed the Duke Marino de Tolbronia as a man with no power in his household. His mother-in-law, Mrs. C. A. Moore, owned the black-square Tolbronia castle in Rome when they took up their abode there, and the duke was allowed but a small apartment therein.

The duchess paid all bills and admitted "my husband had no say-so, unless wanted it." Member of one of Italy's most prominent families, he had only a small income before the duchess left him in 1914 to return to the United States with their three children, she testified.

Her trusted chauffeur first apprised her of the duke's interest in Maria and it was with him she trailed her husband repeatedly, before imploring him to give up Maria, she told the court. He angrily refused, according to the testimony, and told Charles Arthur Moore, the duchess' brother, who also testified to having reproached the duke for his openness in cohabiting with the Italian beauty that Maria was "only a common woman and easily got rid of."

The court was told also of the separation agreement under which the duchess allowed him $5,000 a month in return for custody of their two daughters and one son.

The duke is still in Italy, but his lawyers, opposing the divorce action, maintained an American court has no jurisdiction over the marriage and attacked the duchess' claim that the American citizenship, restored through the naturalization courts in 1925.

The convention committee, which was appointed some time ago, will announce arrangements for the Atlanta meeting at a convention in Savannah, Ga., December 9-10.

HAPEVILLE STAYED FROM APPLICATION OF BOUNDARY ACT

A consent order enjoining the city of Hapeville from proceeding under the provisions of an act passed by the last legislature which extended the city limits of the city to Egan Park, College Park and the Clayton county line, was signed Wednesday by Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court.

An agreement between protesting citizens and city officials was reached following several lengthy conferences, at which it was charged by the citizens that the legislative enactment was "slipped over" secretly. A number of industrial plants within the city limits were situated near Hapeville and had no interest within the city limits prior to the enactment and should be exempt from the city taxes.

Democrats Plan "Battle Royal" For Candidates

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER, (United News Staff Correspondent)

Washington, November 16.—The democrats are preparing to ventilate their differences at a big Jackson day political dinner here in January when all factions of the party and leading candidates for president will be invited to debate the national issues.

Announcement that the dinner would be held was made today by Chairman Clem L. Shaver of the democratic national committee, here making arrangements for the big political event, the first big democratic dinner since the one in 1920 when Bryan and others debated the League of Nations in an exciting feast. It will be held about January 12 when the national committee meets here to select the convention city.

"We intend to give all groups a chance to be heard," Chairman Shaver said. "Nobody will be shut out. We want this to be an open forum where all views can be discussed."

Commission Dry Agent Is Jailed In Raid Slaying

Beloit, Wis., November 16.—(AP.)—A 24-year-old youth who worked as a prohibition agent on a commission basis for each conviction obtained, tonight was held in the South Beloit jail on a charge of murder, following the death of William Petroff, soft drink parlor proprietor, whom he shot during a raid.

The youth, John Beyer, Jr., said he went to the Petroff establishment this morning to uncover evidence of liquor law violations. He said the waiter, John Ray, served him with a glass of beer just before Petroff entered and recognized him. Beyer did so, he drew his pistol for self-defense, Petroff, he said, lurched at him in an attempt to knock the glass of beer from his other hand and as he did so the pistol was accidentally discharged.

Petroff was taken to a hospital where an operation was performed in a vain attempt to save his life. He died several hours later, and the county attorney swore out a warrant against Beyer, charging him with murder.

Ray pleaded guilty to liquor law violation and was fined $100.

Chief of Police William Moodie, for whom Beyer was working, said the youth had not been deputized but that he had promised to give him that badge of authority soon. Moodie said Beyer's work had always been good.

South Beloit is just outside of Beloit in Illinois.

In Girl's Death

Suffers Collapse

St. Petersburg, Fla., November 16.—(AP.)—H. L. Browne, 45-year-old former Sunday school superintendent and real estate operator, who was arrested here yesterday in connection with the death of a 16-year-old high school girl, was reported by attending physicians today to be suffering from a severe nervous breakdown.

A warrant for Browne's arrest, charging statutory offense, was sworn out by an individual, whose name was withheld, following an investigation by the sheriff. Authorities said Browne was in a severe condition.

He did not know that the warrant had been served. His bond was fixed at $5,000.

The undertaker said the death certificate stated the girl had died from intestinal influenza, although local authorities are investigating a report that an illegal operation had been performed on the girl at a Tampa hospital. A date for Browne's preliminary hearing has not been set.

Browne came here about four years ago from Memphis, Tenn., where he operated a general plumbing shop and officiated as pastor at a small church. He was engaged for a time as assistant pastor for a local church, where he was prominent in Sunday school work. In his spare time he engaged in real estate business. He is married and the father of several children.

LINDBERGH LANDS AT HUNTING CAMP IN VIRGINIA HILLS

Staunton, Va., November 16.—(AP.)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh tonight is the guest of Hugh B. Sprout, member of the Virginia state highway commission, at the Sprout camp, 22 miles from here. The trans-Atlantic flyer, piloting a Fairchild cabin cruiser and accompanied by Governor Byrd of Virginia; Harry F. Guggenheim, head of the Guggenheim foundation, and Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia highway commission, arrived at a landing field near the camp late this afternoon following a flight from Richmond.

They were joined at the Sprout camp tonight by William T. Reed, chairman of the Virginia commission on simplification of government, who motored from Richmond.

It was announced tonight that the party will hunt tomorrow in the mountains of Augusta and Highland counties, which they will continue their trip by plane up the Shenandoah valley toward Winchester.

TIPS ON TRIPS

PATHFINDER AT ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Recent rains have not as yet greatly affected Georgia roads or detours, and traffic is moving with reasonable ease in every direction. There have been no recent unreported changes in detours, but the time is nearing when many of those that have continued to cause trouble in event of continued rains, will be eliminated.

Southbound traffic through Atlanta has shown a recent decrease, due in part, probably, to the unusually mild weather in the middle west and east and also to the fact that many middle western touring bureaus are favoring the Bee Line highway south from Nashville through Birmingham and Montgomery.

Cold weather in the middle west will bring about the belated start of many cars to Florida and unless the weather is unseasonably Georgia will get her full share of traffic during the next two weeks.

The Wolverine pathfinder cars are constantly checking over every route through Georgia to Florida in order that The Constitution's travel bureau may have the most accurate and complete information on road conditions that pass through Georgia, and that travel bureaus in the middle west may be kept reliably informed as to general and specific road conditions in Georgia.

Pathfinding is the only way that such information can be secured in Georgia this fall and winter. Only a personal knowledge of the several roads, detours and construction projects can equip one to classify the reports from the many sources available to travel bureaus. As yet road conditions have not been sufficiently bad at any time to make the pathfinding unpleasant, especially with the new Rex Wolverines that take every road with equal ease and comfort.

WIZARD OF OSLO PLANTING HAIR ON BALD WOMAN

New York, November 16.—(AP)—Christian Askhagen, a Scandinavian known to beauty culturists as the Wizard of Oslo, was engaged today in sewing a patch of hair onto a bald spot in the scalp of Miss Peggy Tudor, victim of a beauty parlor accident. It was said to be the first time this operation has been performed in this country.

By Askhagen's invention, to which he said he had devoted 18 years, each hair of the new patch is set into the scalp mounted in a minute gold ring. He said the hair would behave as well as natural hair and would last for 2,000 years, whether needed that long or not.

SUICIDE OF TECH ATHLETE RETOLD IN CAROLINA SUIT

Columbia, S. C., November 16.—(AP)—Notes indicating that Rich F. (Dick) Wright had committed suicide were found after the death of the Georgia Tech football star in May of 1926. Dr. A. H. Armstrong, of the Tech faculty, testified today in the suit brought by the administrator of Wright's estate to collect $5,000 in insurance from the Philadelphia (Pa.) Life Insurance company.

Dr. Armstrong was permitted to give his evidence as a defense witness before the case of the plaintiff was presented in United States district court in order that he might take an early train back to Atlanta.

It is understood the insurance company bases its refusal to pay the claim on the ground that the policy, said to have been issued in July, 1924, carried a "suicide clause," operative for a two-year period.

Before making a gridiron reputation at Tech, Wright was known as a football star for the Sumter (S. C.) High school. His death was attributed to poison, but no satisfactory motive for self-destruction was ever advanced.

Beautiful Girls of 'Young America' Are Seeing Atlanta Between Dances

The 16 beautiful girls of the Publix theater unit, "Young America," playing this week at the Howard theater, snapped on a visit to the Stone Mountain confederate memorial.

Atlanta between dances—that's the program of the 16 beautiful girls of the Publix theater unit, "Young America," playing this week at the Howard theater.

While the 16 sprightly stepsisters are doing their stuff at the Howard, Miss Beulah Leavens, Atlanta girl chosen for the cast in a contest conducted some months ago by The Constitution, is acting as hostess to her companions at a number of enjoyable stunts arranged for them.

Tuesday the girls visited the Stone Mountain memorial. Wednesday they came in a body to The Constitution and saw how editors and reporters do their work. Today they will be guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at that organization's weekly luncheon and tonight the Ansley hotel.

Maier and Pattison Provide Treat in Two-Piano Recital

Several thousand Atlanta music lovers missed what but fair to be one of the musical treats of the season when Maier and Pattison, string artists, played their two pianos Wednesday night to a handful of listeners in the large city auditorium.

The astounding ensemble of their work was possibly best demonstrated in the opening Bach Fugue, one of those three voice affairs which strikes terror in the heart of the two and taxes the master. With unbelievable smoothness this pair tossed the theme between their instruments, but with such coordination and ease that it was almost impossible to follow the transition. Truly in this number alone they proved their right to the credit given them during the past decade for the revival of two piano work and the popularity it has achieved.

Saint Saens' variations on a Beethoven theme followed and gave the performers another opportunity to demonstrate their perfectly matched execution this time in tone. Between them they managed an exquisitely shaded performance of a sonata adagio movement.

Mr. Maier did some ingenious two-piano arranging in the group of six Brahms waltzes, preserving intact the simplicity of Brahms melody in an elaborate setting—one of the most effective numbers of the entire program.

Rachmaninoff's rather futuristic "Tears" fails to gain appreciably in its two-piano rendition, but its fantastic concert effect followed and gave the performers another opportunity to demonstrate their perfectly matched execution this time in tone. Between them they managed an exquisitely shaded performance of a sonata adagio movement.

SMUGGLED OPIUM TURNS OUT FAKE;
MOVIE RELEASED

St. Albans, Vt., November 16.—(AP)—An elaborate play by government agents to trap opium smugglers fell through today when government chemists reported that packages filled with what was supposed to be 750 pounds of opium seized near the Canadian border three weeks ago did not contain one ounce of that drug. As a result United States Commissioner C. D. Watson discharged Oscar Mouret, Paris hotel proprietor and father of the late Maurice, dancer, and John Wilson, of Colbrook, N. H.

Government narcotic agents, posing as customers, had arranged in New York for the delivery of a large quantity of opium for which they agreed to pay $30 a pound. When Mouret and Wilson drove over the border and delivered the packages at Isle La Motte they were promptly arrested. They had been told to hold here in default of $10,000 bonds each.

English Airman To Blaze Trail Through Africa

Rochester, England, November 16. (United News.)—Despite an accident to his plane today, Sir Alan Cobham, England's most famous long-distance airman, expects to start Thursday on a 20,000-mile flight around Africa to survey a new aerial route between London and Cape Town.

Several holes were torn in the fuselage of his seaplane today as Cobham was alighting in the river Mersey after a trial flight. It is thought the plane caught on concealed driftwood.

Using a short all-metal "Singapore" flying boat, Cobham hopes to demonstrate the practicability of using a seaplane in flight over the heart of Africa, following the River Nile and the African Great Lakes, until he comes out on the east coast of Africa at Beira, in Portuguese East Africa.

From Beira he plans to follow the coast to Cape Town. On his return from Cape Town to London, he would follow the west coast of Africa until he reached a point opposite Gibraltar when he would cross to the European continent and continue home by way of Barcelona, Bordeaux and Plymouth.

Metropolitan.
What she regards as the most unusual characterization of her entire screen career is portrayed by Dorothy Mackaill in "The Crystal Cup," the First National picture now playing at the Metropolitan theater. A top-notch Christie comedy, "The Daily Dill," with Ned Burns is also on the bill as well as Literary Digest's "Fun From the Press, News and Views," and Enrico Leide and his Metropolitan orchestra.

Rialto.
"The Wreck of the Hesperus," screen visualization of the famous poem by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, with an all-star cast and a masterful presentation by the DeMille studios, opens today at the Rialto theater to run the rest of the week, accompanied by a Bobby Vernon comedy entitled "Meet the Folks," Sam Derrasse, Virginia Bradford, Frank Marion and Alvin Hale are in the cast of "The Wreck of the Hesperus."

Tudor.
Buck Jones, one of the screen's foremost revolvers of western roles, thrills his audience today as a gunman, who, after trying to live down a bloody reputation, is forced to return and clean up the country after a band of ruffians had secured control. He does that in "Chain Lightning," which is taken from the Charles Albee Selzer story, and which the Tudor is showing today, Friday and Saturday.

Alamo No. 2.
The Victor Hugo Halperin production, "Greater Than Marriage," which will be shown at Alamo theater No. 2 today only, is an adaptation of Louis Joseph Vance's famous novel, "Joan Thursday." A cast of notable players, including Marjorie Daw, Lou Tellegen, Peggy Kelly, Tyrone Power, Dogmar Godowsky, Mary Thurman, Effie Shannon and Raymond Bloomer was engaged for the production. The story revolves around a young girl who sought a stage career and was forced to choose between her art and her husband.

Ponce de Leon.
There has never been a comedian quite like Harold Lloyd. And this internationally liked funny man is seen at his very best in "For Heaven's Sake," which is playing for today and tomorrow at the Ponce de Leon theater. There is comedy sequence after comedy sequence, laugh after laugh, and roar after roar, until at the end of the picture, one's sides fairly ache with the result of all the comedy that Lloyd produces. He is supported by an unusually good cast.

Palace.
Today and Friday Milton Sills in "Framed," framed by a woman he loved, made to suffer in filth and swamps of a penal prison. No wonder he hated all women. But why was he fighting for this one? Come and see.

WORKER, WHIRLED
BY SHAFT, SUES
FOR $500,000

Charlotte, N. C., November 16.—(AP)—Suit for $500,000, believed to be the largest sum ever asked in a personal injury suit in North Carolina, was filed in Mecklenburg superior court today by Frank Crowell against the Highland Park Manufacturing company. Crowell, a former employee, alleges in his petition that he was literally torn in pieces when he was caught in a whirling shaft and spun through the air.

Crowell was in a hospital five months.

Keith's Georgia.
The birthday jubilee program at Keith's Georgia theater is drawing large crowds that are finding great diversion in the mirth-amounting vaudeville bill and the sensational feature picture, "Jesse James." Walter and Betty Redick present an amusing comedy skit, in "Anne's Ancestors," in which the two, in addition to their wit, offer some whirlwind somersault stunts, and clever dancing.

Capitol.
Entertainment—you've seen the word before, but to really appreciate its full meaning, one must see the current program at the Capitol theater, where a great bill of vaudeville headed by Tom Brown and the famous Six Brown Brothers, and "East Side West Side," on the screen. Capacity houses are the rule at every performance of the Capitol bill, proving that people really do like the finest entertainment available. George O'Brien and Virginia Valli are featured in "East Side West Side," a picture that, for the first time, has really caught the soul of New York.

Loew's Grand.
Loew's Grand theater this week is offering one of the best programs ever seen at this theater during any season. The vaudeville bill is headed by Herb Williams, noted comedian, whose comedy act "From Soup to Nuts," is one continuous riot of fun. Williams is a comedian who makes them laugh and the sides literally ache. The picture is "The Garden of Allah," with Alice Terry and Ivan Petrovich in leading roles.

Howard.
"Young America," consisting of the prize winners of the Public national opportunity contests and Beulah Leavens, The Constitution-Howard winner, is the headline attraction at the Howard theater this week. The feature picture is Bebe Daniels in "She's a Sheik," this part of the program in itself is enough so headline any attraction and coupled with "Young America" and Al Short it is said to make the whole bill one of exceptional entertainment merit.

Forsyth.
One of the most entertaining plays ever seen on an Atlanta stage is "Sinner," which is playing all this week at the Forsyth theater, where it is being presented by the talented Forsyth Players. Miss Ivy Merions, extremely personable young leading lady of the

Moncrief
Furnace

When you buy a home heated with a New Improved Moncrief, not only are you assured of the finest heating plant that money can buy, but you just as surely get a better house. The builder, who favors shoddy material and cheap construction does not install high class heating equipment. Inferior construction and the Moncrief Furnace do not go together.

In spite of the fact that the New Improved Moncrief costs the builder a trifle more to install, he knows that he will more than make up the difference by a quicker sale to a satisfied home owner.

When buying a house ask the builder to Guarantee the furnace. If it's a Moncrief he will do it readily.

They Wouldn't Believe

SYNOPSIS

On the way to Donald Briery's house at Robinson for luncheon, Connie Kinore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friend, Olive Weston, that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Olive and Connie share a flat in London and are secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Randle and Quirk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Briery of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Briery, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Randle. Quirk suggests to Randle that he invite Briery to Harrowby house and there, with the assistance of Quirk's tool, Wade, dispose of Briery. Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out, but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Randle and another man kill Mr. Briery, whom she recognizes from her portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Quirk. While telling her story Quirk pushes the bell and sends a signal to the murderer. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, she proceeds to the library and Connie asks Quirk to open the secret panel in the wall where she had seen the men place the body. It is empty. Quirk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Quirk intimates that she imagines the scene, and, in exasperation, Connie goes to see Olive, who believes her story.

Quirk requests Randle to come to the superintendent's office, and he presents his will, which the officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wade's office, where old man Turle and his son, the spurious heirs, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

The next morning Connie calls on Quirk and meets young Jones there. She recognizes him as her old nurse's son, but does not know that he has been posing as Henry Turle, Jr. Quirk later pretends that Connie imagined she saw young Jones. He tells Olive that Randle is about to bring criminal suit against Connie unless Olive, as her nearest friend, has her committed to a private institution at Manton which he recommends. While Donald is visiting Connie at Manton house a body is found buried in his garden. Olive, sent out on the case by her newspaper, meets and warns Donald. She arranges a hiding place for him in London. She later helps Connie to escape from Manton.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

"I hope the jury will believe you don't for your sake. If they do, you'll get off as far as the murder is concerned—but, of course, the attempt to produce a fake Turle and then pose as his heir."

"I can't believe that you realized what you were doing, Mr. Jones," Connie cut in, softly.

"O. I knew it was a stunt, miss. Jones answered sheepishly, and for that piece of honesty Olive almost liked him."

"I believe you could get him away if you wished, Olive darling," Connie pleaded. "Ned is very young. We must give him another start, for the sake of his poor old mother."

"Very well," said Olive, and hit her lip. "Then, to Jones: 'I can promise nothing. You may be arrested as soon as you leave here. But if you will write at my dictation I will try to get you away. Do you accept?'"

"Yes, miss—thank you kindly," stammered Jones.

For half an hour he wrote, at Olive's dictation, a summary of all that he had told them.

Two minutes later they were entering the car. To Olive's relief Randle didn't show himself.

"There's a little job you can do before you go," said Olive to Jones. "I'm going to take you to Robinson."

In half an hour the car was stopped outside Oaklands—Don's house. The house was in darkness. It would be useless she knew, to try the front door.

She went back to the car to get a spanner. With this, to Jones' horror, she smashed the dining room window, loosened the catch, and opened it.

By the light of a match she found the hall to the study, where she turned on the lights.

"Go and look at that picture," she told him, pointing to the picture of Donald Briery's father.

She waited while he gazed at the picture, and then:

"Have you seen that man before?"

"There was a bloke like him—only a good bit older, I should say—on the boat coming over from Mexico when I was with the old man."

Olive felt her heart thud. With a supreme effort she clutched at her self-control.

"Older. Yes. Thirteen or fourteen years older. So you recognize him, do you?"

"Yes, miss, the more I look at it the more I'm sure it is him. He was a queer bloke, so shabby you didn't like being seen talking to him, but with a voice and talk like a gentleman."

Olive drew a deep breath. For a moment she could not speak. The

"That's right enough," said Rason. "I remember it. It was reported to me and we came to the conclusion that it was all above board. Where is Jones, by the way?"

"Bolted like a rabbit," said Olive and followed with an account of her visit to Oaklands and Jones' identification of the picture.

"We're getting back to Connie's tale, you see," said Olive.

"Wait a minute," said Rason. "We can pick this man up from the shipping company's records—and there's the support office again."

"Assuming Connie's tale to be true in every particular, Wade was probably the second man she saw and didn't recognize."

"That's rushing," said Rason. "A common fault of the amateur, Miss Weston. We must go slow."

"You can't," said Olive. "I'm going round to Sandie's flat to haul him out of bed and put the breeze up him."

Olive started the engine of the car and turned on to the embankment—the nearest way to Scotland Yard.

"If you really are going, I'm going with you," said Rason. "It will probably cost me my job, if that's any consolation to you."

"Is that a promise?" asked Olive.

"Yes."

"Then do you mind telling me Sandie's address?"

Rason swore under his breath as he perceived how nearly he had been tricked.

"Artillery Mansions, South Kensington," he said with resignation. "I forget the number, but we can pick that up when we get there."

Arrived at Artillery Mansions, they scanned the residents' board.

Concealed in a doorway on the opposite side of the board, a man had watched their movements. He waited several minutes, then hurried along to the main road, where he entered a telephone box.

He gave a number, and then:

"Miss Weston has just entered Sandie's flat with Rason of the Yard."

Quirk had been roused from his first sleep by the telephone at his bedside. For all his physical flabbiness, he awoke in full possession of his faculties.

Armstrong-Foreman Wedding Is Brilliant Event in Mobile

Mobile, Ala., November 16.—The marriage of Miss Eunice Harriette Armstrong and Evan Howell Foreman, of Atlanta, Ga., was solemnized Wednesday evening at a brilliant ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Armstrong, Rev. Dr. Carpenter, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, performing the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. Preceding the marriage service Mrs. Cecil Vineyard rendered two violin solos, "Arioso," by Bohn, and "Adoration," by Bohn. The solos were followed by two songs, "Devotion" and "At Dawning," sung by Mrs. Garner Goodbread. Miss Pearl Schwartz presided at the piano.

The ceremony was performed in the spacious living room under a brilliantly lighted archway. Palms, ferns and floor baskets of giant white chrysanthemums formed the background for the bridal party. Cathedral candelabra holding white burning tapers shed a soft light over the lovely scene.

Miss Dorothy Ray, who acted as bridesmaid, wore an attractive shell-pink tulle dress made with full skirt and close-fitting bodice. She wore pink satin slippers and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss June Armstrong, young sister of the bride, was the flower girl and she presented a dainty figure wearing a frock of light-colored tulle. Her lovely hair was parted with a pink satin ribbon. She wore flesh-colored satin slippers and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of valley lilies and pink roses.

Lovely Bride.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, F. E. Armstrong, and the groom was attended by his brother, R. L. Foreman, Jr., of Atlanta, and his cousin, Clark Howell, Jr., of Atlanta. The bride's hair was styled in a wavy, soft, and becoming manner. Her dress was of ivory satin, adding beautiful softness to the bridal dress was the fact that it was worn by the groom's mother, Mrs. R. L. Foreman, Sr., on her wedding day. The gown was fashioned in a princess style, recalling the bridal costumes of 1893. The quantity of material was ample, and the fitting bodice was trimmed with ruffles of red lace. Adding attractiveness to the elegant costume was the long court train of ivory satin. The lovely bride's hair was styled in a wavy, soft, and becoming manner. ## I Have Said in My Heart

DOGS

BY IDAH MCGLOONE GIBSON.

Some woman who evidently had been as unfortunate in her choice of men friends as she was fortunate in her choice of a dog, made that oft-quoted speech: "The more I see of men the better I like dogs."

Like all smart epigrams, the intimation is hardly true, for there are splendid men, as well as fine dogs, in the world.

The normal woman likes men as well as they like her, and that is a good deal. The antagonism between the sexes which we hear so much about is all tommy rot.

If a woman looks for friendship, comradeship, respect and love from men she'll get it, and if she is looking for trouble she'll be very apt to find it as well.

If, however, she is insatiable for unqualified and unquestioning loyalty she had better pin her faith to a dog.

I have never yet found a human being who sometimes will not question the opinion and judgment of the best beloved, and I have never yet known a human love that has always thought the loved one perfect.

Dogs seem to do this, but dogs, poor things, cannot talk, you know, and one never can tell just what they think when they caper about us all ready to go out with us and we send them back home disconsolate.

True, they go back with the most unhappy air, and they welcome one with effusion when one returns, but I'll wager they sometimes say a few things to themselves about us that we would not care to hear.

However, I am very fond of my dog, and I have seen an expression of unquestioning love and adoration in his eyes that I never expect to see in the eyes of any man. He is always about when I want him, and I can send him away when I grow tired of him. You will all agree in these particulars he has the advantage over our men friends.

For a long time the Presnere spaniel has been the pet of society. Pierpont Morgan has one for many years that was always with him and generally in his arms.

Do you know that I sometimes think the reason we like dogs so well is because they are always flattering us?

Your dog tells you in dog language every day that you are the god who moves the world, that no one can compare with you, and the sun will cease to shine when you cease to be.

It's silent adoration, but none the less it is always incense before our egotism.

Memo: Women feel the need of this unquestioning love more than men, and that is why you see so many women making playthings and pets of dogs.

New President To Be Named By U. D. C. Delegates Today

Charleston, S. C., November 16.—(AP)—Examination of the reports of a score of representatives of national officers and commission chairmen occupied the session of the United Daughters of the Confederacy today before adjournment in the afternoon for an interim of social affairs.

A tea, a review of the cadet corps at the Citadel, and a dinner of the Jefferson Davis Highway association preceded a night meeting during which representatives of divisional presidents were presented.

Election of national officers is scheduled for tomorrow morning with three candidates endorsed by their respective state delegations for president. They are Mrs. W. C. N. Merchants of Chattanooga, Va., chairman of the committee on history; Mrs. W. E. R. Byrne, of Charleston, Va., first vice president general; and Miss Katie Duffan, of Elkins, Texas, third vice president general.

Miss Mary Vaughn, of Clarksville,

Va., member of that chapter of Children of the Confederacy, was awarded the Mollie Duffan cup, presented this year by Miss Katie Duffan in memory of her mother, to the child who performed the most unselfish act of service to a Confederate veteran or widow of a Confederate veteran. The young recipient of the cup, according to the director of the Virginia division of Children of the Confederacy, was a "guardian angel" to an impoverished veteran and his wife, carrying to them material comforts and endeavoring to ease their declining years.

The W. S. Coleman loving cup, donated for the best literary work of a director of a Children of the Confederacy chapter, was awarded to Mrs. Sterling Gray, of the Julia Jackson chapter, of Charlotte, N. C. The Charlotte chapter won the Robert H. Ricks banner for chapter work for the third successive year and a silver loving cup was awarded to the children's chapter of Monticello, Ark., for work in increasing membership.

By a change of program, the site for next year's convention will be chosen after the election of officers.

The officers and chairman of her administration gave Mrs. Schuler, of New York, a silver service and Mrs. St. John Lawton read a report which proved of much constructive value.

Leading Wrestlers on Card at Auditorium Tonight

Jimmy Londos, Favorite Here, In Main Bout

Large Crowd Expected To Attend Second Show of Season.

What promises to be one of the most exciting wrestling cards offered here in some time is in order at the city auditorium tonight. The complete program follows:

MAIN EVENT—Jimmy Londos vs. Nick Gotch, two out of three, two hours' limit.

SEMI-WINDUP—Jim Brown vs. Scotty McDougald, two out of three falls, one hour limit.

PRELIMINARY—Jack Washburn vs. John Firpo Wilcox, Indian, one fall, one hour limit.

Place, City auditorium, Referee, Dr. Langford.

Time, 8:30 p. m.

Box office at auditorium opens at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

In the feature of the evening's entertainment Jimmy Londos, popular Greek star, will be pitted against Nick Gotch. The last is another one of the unknowns, so far as Atlantans are concerned, but Matchmaker Contos has personally vouched for Gotch, with the declaration that he is a suitable opponent for Londos, or any other star.

Londos has quite a following among the regular fans and particularly among the members of his own race. The Greeks always turn out to cheer for Jimmy, the boy who thrills with flying knees and other spectacular holds.

Browning a Favorite.

The match between Jim Browning, an old favorite and Scotty McDougald, heavyweight wrestling champion of Scotland, promises to rival the main event in the production of excitement for the onlookers. One reason for that belief is the fact that there are few more spectacular holds than Browning's flying head scissors. On top of that there is the report that McDougald is a sturdy and skilled wrestler, well equipped to give Browning plenty of trouble.

It is likely that all of the science of wrestling will be exhibited in the above mentioned matches and it is just as probable that the clash between Jack Washburn and John Firpo Wilcox will be settled by brute strength and rough tactics. Both of these grapplers are said to be quick tempered and when one becomes rough that is the other's cue to step in and become even rougher. However, in the past, Atlanta fans have evinced a liking for such tactics, particularly as displayed by Rough Rickard and Davisson and others of his type.

Firpo Progressing.

Firpo is a full-blooded Indian who is making rapid progress in the wrestling game and who would not care to have his progress checked by Washburn, the Oklahoma cowboy and former California policeman.

No matter how rough the reelskin may be the fans are confident that Washburn will be capable of holding his own, for in his last two performances here he has shown remarkable strength and some skill.

Matchmaker John Contos believes that this show, the second of the season, will draw a thousand or more fans than the 2,000 that sat in on the opening contest of the season a few weeks ago. At this time there were conflicting engagements in Atlanta.

Horween Retained As Harvard Coach

Cambridge, Mass., November 16.—(United Press.)—Arnold Horween, Harvard's head coach of football, has another year in which to make good and news of his appointment served today to inspire the Harvard team to fresh heights in its preparation for Saturday's clash with Yale.

Horween, despite his not particularly outstanding record at Harvard, has been popular with his men, a situation not envied by all of his predecessors, and the squad welcomed the announcement of William J. Ringham, director of athletics, that the Chicago man would be back at the helm in 1928.

Ringham's definite pronouncement set at rest newspaper speculation concerning Horween's status at the end of the present season.

Last year Harvard lost five out of eight games, including the all-important Yale contest, while this year, in the face of a much stiffer schedule, but with the assistance of better material, it has won four and lost three.

Sharkey To Face Commish Friday

New York, November 16.—(United Press.)—Answering the request of the New York boxing commission for a report on the injury which caused Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, to call off his fight Friday night against Tom Hooney, Dr. Klein, medical examiner of the Massachusetts commission, today said that his examination showed negative results.

Dr. Klein said Sharkey had complained of pain at the base of the fourth finger of his left hand, and that there was no indication of swelling, but that no evidence of a recent fracture was found.

The commission was notified later in a telegram from Johnny Bucklew, Sharkey's manager, that Sharkey would report Friday and submit to an examination by New York doctors.

Jack Dempsey, Rickard Fall Nine Floors

Elevator Slips, Carrying Celebrities Down From Court Room.

Newark, N. J., November 15.—(AP) Honors were described as even by spectators who filed the tiny courtroom today in which the legal battle between Jack Dempsey and his former manager, Jack Kearns, had its first round before Federal Judge William N. Ryan.

It was a day filled with all manner of excitement, including a nine-story drop of an elevator carrying Dempsey, Jack Rickard, Arthur F. Driscoll, of the boxer's counsel, and about 20 others.

All were shaken up and the law's ensuing illness caused adjournment of court about two hours ahead of time.

Upward pressure prevented a head weight plunge of the elevator. It struck the basement, bounded up about five feet and settled back slowly.

Kearns is suing the former champion for $222,222.25, alleging breach of a contract signed on September 22, 1923.

The trial got under way at noon with the selection of the jury, and ran smoothly enough until after the drop of the elevator, when Driscoll returned to court and began his opening address to the jury, declaring that the alleged contract was "merely a scrap of paper designed to deceive the New York state athletic commission."

He explained that it "was all right with Dempsey," and added that Kearns signed both names to the paper, realizing that it was "only a scrap of paper."

The document, however, was returned by the commission and Dempsey himself signed the next one. It was only to pave the way for the Dempsey-Firpo fight, Driscoll announced, pointing out that Dempsey always shared 50-50 with Kearns, yet the contract called for a 67-32 split.

The contract was signed on September 23, 1923, and was to be retroactive to September 14, the day of the Firpo fight, he said. Kearns said that the agreement was retroactive to August 3, 1923, and was effective until August 3, 1926.

Arthur N. Sager, Kearns' counsel, opened for the plaintiff with a caustic attack upon Dempsey, Judge Ryan calling a foul only when he began painting Dempsey as a tramp of the road.

Sager swept quickly through the background of the litigation, telling of the contract and how it bound Dempsey to pay over to Kearns out here of what he would have received if he failed to carry out any engagement Kearns contracted for him. In all engagements executed Kearns was to receive half, he said.

The plaintiff, went on the lawyer, signed contracts for Dempsey to fight Harry Wills and Gene Tunney in 1926 with a $250,000 guarantee for Dempsey in each, and it was upon the boxer's alleged refusal to carry out these that the suit was based.

It was indicated tonight that on account of the illness of Arthur F. Driscoll, of Dempsey's counsel, that the trial would not be resumed tomorrow.

New Conference To Be Organized

Memphis, Tenn., November 16.—(AP) Representatives of colleges in four states met here today to discuss the formation of an athletic conference and after lengthy discussion adjourned to meet here December 9-10. The conference probably will be known as the Mississippi Valley Athletic conference.

Colleges represented were: Murray Normal, Murray, Ky.; Mississippi Delta State Teacher's college, Jonesboro college, Jonesboro, Ark.; Bethel college, Russellville, Ky.; U. of T. college, Martin, Tenn.; West Tennessee State Teacher's college, Memphis; Bethel college, McKenzie, Tenn.; and Lambuth college, Jackson, Tenn.

Ban Johnson Leaves Excelsior Springs

Excelsior Springs, Mo., November 16.—(United Press.)—John Johnson, former president of the American league, left today for Chicago after many weeks spent in a sanitarium here. His condition was reported as much improved.

Johnson will spend a few weeks in Chicago, and return to Excelsior Springs for further treatment.

Recently he was in such serious condition that he could not receive a committee which presented him with a plaque in commemoration of his long service in baseball.

More Alabama Plays Shown Georgia Squad

Rat Eleven and Scrubs Battle Varsity in Long Scrimmage.

Athens, Ga., November 16.—A long hard scrimmage against Alabama plays was the order of the day for the leading Georgia Bulldogs on Saturday at the Georgia Institute of Technology. The Red Devils gave the varsity a defensive workout for more than an hour, and during that period was able to score two touchdowns by the formation of the Crimson Tide.

Before the Red Devils took the field the freshman eleven worked on the defense for a while against the varsity and although several touchdowns were registered by the conference champions, the rats seem to have improved their defense a great deal.

Rats Leave Friday.

Coach Bill White will take his freshman to Rome Thursday afternoon for the following day. The rats have improved quite a bit since the first of the season and although the light team seen on Saturday field in many years, some of them give promise of future developments.

Dickens, star halfback for the freshmen, will be the Alabama game on account of an injured knee. The old knee jinx, which has followed Georgia teams since the memory of man, is not to be repeated, it is hoped, by the freshmen ranks as well as the varsity. Two members of the varsity are suffering from injured knees at present, being Dickie Butler, who was forced to quit the squad some weeks ago on this account, and Buzz Collins, sophomore end, who succumbed to hard luck at the Tulane game.

A further workout against Alabama plays is in order for the Bulldogs Thursday afternoon.

THREE YALE CRIPPLES JOIN SQUAD AGAIN

New York, November 16.—(AP) The three cripples of the Yale squad, Captain Webster, Hobson and Garvey, returned to the ranks of the Blue today to furnish just a bit more worry for Harvard on Saturday. At the same time the Crimson lost Joe Crosby, an outstanding back, through a nose infection.

Discharged from the infirmary just before practice, the trio took part for a short time in the signal drill that dominated the light practice. Webster was in at guard for only a minute, while Hobson directed the play for five minutes and Garvey worked out at half for ten. Coaches announced all three will start against Harvard.

Crosby Is Out.

Crosby went to the infirmary today when the infection that developed Monday grew worse and affected his general condition. There is little chance of his playing against Yale, leaving the backfield burden to Brown, Guarnaccia, Potter and French, who worked together in dummy scrimmages. Harvard again featured new plays and signal drill.

Correll pulled his eleven together again today after the Dartmouth disaster. Beck and Cohen, backs, dropped to the third team, but their substitutes failed to impress. Coach Dolan has three injured regulars, Wickham and Scholes, ends, and Kneen, center, who probably will not face Penna Thanksgiving day. Army and Navy drilled more strenuously for the service tussle November 26. Syracuse concentrated on a strengthening running attack for Niagara Saturday and Columbia on the holidays.

Hal Broda Signs Friedman's Eleven

New York, November 16.—(United Press.)—Hal Broda, all-American end with Brown last year, signed a contract today with Benny Friedman's Cleveland Bulldogs, professional football team. Broda played every minute of every game the undefeated Brown team played in 1926.

He will make his professional debut Sunday against the Providence team at Providence, R. I., where he rose to fame on the Brown eleven. He has been assistant coach at Western Reserve university this fall.

Hall of Fame

Nominating Morton Kaer.

Because he was an almost unanimous choice for All-American honors in 1926.

Because he was sought by a number of professional teams last year, but preferred his amateur standing to the financial returns of a pro gridder.

Because he plans to return to the University of Southern California next February, where he is still eligible for another year of track and basketball.

Because in 1925, with the Trojans, he led the country in touchdowns.

And because he is a four-sport star.

TIME TO BEGIN POINTING FOR YALE WAS 2 YEARS AGO

Pegler Says Harvard Formerly Held Upper Hand

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, November 16.—Dispatches from Boston report that the Harvard football team has begun to point for the game with the Yale team next Saturday, and you might say that Harvard hasn't been pointing a minute too soon. In fact, this is something like attempting to grow a square-rigger beard overnight, starting 24 hours under the skin because the time to have started pointing for the sort of football team that Yale has just now was two years ago, at least.

However, they would still make a great holiday of the Yale-Harvard game at Boston if one team were composed entirely of All-American weight-lifters and the other of juveniles in the dramatic club. Furthermore, there seems to be some quality in the rivalry between Harvard and Yale that would invigorate and inspire the gentler team to do a lot of valiant dying on the one-yard line, perhaps, hold the weight-lifters to a couple of touchdowns which feat in the days of Yale's misfortune a few years ago, was known as a moral victory.

In those days, a Yale undergraduate, or old graduate, would find something to cheer about in the fact that Harvard had beaten his team only half as badly as he had expected. Thus, by anticipating a defeat twice as humiliating, the Yale undergraduate, or old graduate, could spare himself undue depression. There were so many of these moral victories in the Yale statistics that after a time the politicians and prize fighters borrowed the phrase and a candidate for alderman or a preliminary boy who had barely saved himself from annihilation would claim that he had scored a Yale victory.

Came a Change.

But then one day some irritable Yale alumnus who had been checking checks regularly after the Harvard-Yale games to cover rash investments in his college loyalty broke into the New York newspapers saying "Out with these glorious defeats and let us win a few football games," and the effect was so startling that the moral value of a moral victory declined to the point of vanishing.

Of course, this was several years ago, and there is no malice in my beinging the subject up at this time, and a coach with a good football education, but can't win from teams of his own class. Generally, the coach is blamed and one can be sure that when the present season has ended there will be agitation at Harvard to relieve Mr. Arnold Horween of his job.

However, it has been only one month since there was a similar agitation at Yale to relieve Mr. Tad Jones of his job in which case Mr. Jones tossed the agitators into confusion by resigning voluntarily, effective the instant the last whistle blew on the field at Cambridge, Mass., next Saturday evening. Now the agitators are agitating just as vehemently for the retention of Mr. Jones, but he, being something of a practical psychologist, probably will seize the opportunity to leave them laughing when he says goodbye.

Yale Larger.

The Harvard gentlemen do not measure up to the Yale gentlemen in actual dimensions, man for man, but Pratt and Clark, the regular tackles, are 220-pound men and Bell, the center, is about the same size as Mr. Charles Worth, of Yale. In the backfield, Yale has no man as large as Potter, the sophomore full-back, registered from Milwaukee. However, the great uniform physique of the Yale team is only slow to sustain the smart, eager alertness of the machines. They probably would play almost as well if they were a great deal smaller because they would still be an unusually fine team.

There are a couple of players on the Harvard side, such as French, Crosby, and Guarnaccia, who might be famous men if they were with Yale, but in the Dartmouth and Penn games the Harvard team seemed not to know how to do a thing. They had ideas but couldn't execute them. I have heard of this failing in other walks of life. Yet in these football games between rivals who acknowledge no other real rivalry, the scores seldom corroborate the disparity in previous performances.

Benefit Grid Game For Flood Proposed

Manchester, N. H., November 16.—(United Press.)—A post season football game between Dartmouth and Georgetown, proceeds to go for New England flood relief, has been proposed by William S. O'Grady, Manchester business man and former Georgetown athlete.

Secret Work Is Continued At Tech Flats

Varsity Works Behind Locked Doors as Rest of Gang Scrimmage.

BY BEN COTHRAN.
Scrimmage was the order of the day at Grant field Wednesday afternoon as Bill Fincher sent the gang that drew the claws out of L. S. U.'s Tiger last Saturday through a lengthy workout in preparation for the attempt to bag a Stormy Petrel of Oglethorpe on Saturday next.

That wasn't the only form of activity, however. Kid Clay, after putting his freshmen eligibles through a tough workout ended up with a long session in the tackling pit.

Something was going on up at the baseball field. One could tell that by the occasional yell floating down to those watching the goings-on on the regular field. Coach Alex had a bunch on the ball field, behind locked gates, just as he has been doing for the past week or so. If anyone, outside of the players who were on the field, could make a good-sized fortune on the stage, a bathrobe and crystal ball being the only necessary accessories, it would be running loose on Grant field December 3.

Meanwhile, the gang under Mr. Fincher's tutelage was showing even more improvement than it showed on Saturday last and Bill is rather proud of his boys. A hard blow, in the form of an injury, was struck during the afternoon when Cedartown Rock, a good center, was carried off the field with an injured leg. Just how long Rock will be out wasn't ascertained Wednesday. It is also understood at the flats that Tom Jones, star end on Kid Clay's freshman squad, has a bad kidney injury.

DeVaughn, who has risen to fame recently as a fullback, was ripping a scrub line to shreds with his usual adeptness. Bob Horne pulled off another run in the order of the 63-yard tour last Saturday. Bob went off tackle, cut back in, ran into a scrub who almost brought him down, got loose, and then went on for a touchdown when Kneen dashed in to take the last remaining scrub out of the play. The distance of this run was about 20 yards, and the way Horne shifted his feet and hips was beautiful to watch.

Light scrimmage or long periods of signal drill are on the card for this afternoon, to be followed by a light workout Friday afternoon.

Tourney Off

The women's golf championship tournament that was to have been held at Ansley park this week has been postponed until sometime in the spring.

In the meantime an informal tournament that carries no title or championship is under way at the course and will continue for several days.

TUSKEGEE 11, MOREHOUSE MIX SATURDAY

Coach Harvey is driving the Tigers of Morehouse college in preparation for the hardest conference game on the schedule Saturday, when the Morehouse aggregation meets the champion Tuskegee Tigers, undefeated for the last four years and three times southeastern and national champions of the colored gridiron.

This game will be played on the Morehouse athletic field at 2 o'clock. The local team has won only one conference game this season, while the Tuskegee eleven has defeated every team in the circuit except Atlanta university and Talladega college, but yet played.

Gridiron fans of Atlanta will have their first chance this year to see the famous backfield of Tuskegee in action. This noted combination of Stevenson, Stewart, Bailey and Smith has been called one of the best colored backfields in the country.

All indications point to a hard struggle when they meet, as the Morehouse Tigers are being drilled hard on new plays for the coming tilt with a hard scrimmage looked for Thursday between the first and second varsity teams. Tickets for this game can be secured at the business office of Morehouse college on the campus.

Academy Burns.

Grand Rapids, Mich., November 16.—(AP) Routed from their beds at Mount Mercy academy early today by fire, 13 nuns, married 75 girls to safety in the nearby residences. The academy is conducted by the Sisters of Mercy. The fire, which destroyed the nuns' dormitory and music rooms, caused damage estimated at $75,000.

Petrels Sent Through Hard Scrimmage

Robertson Drills Men for More Than Two Hours.

With the Tech game nearing each day, the Stormy Petrels of Oglethorpe went through the toughest scrimmage of the season Wednesday afternoon on Hermance field under the direction of Coach Robertson and Campbell.

For more than two hours the varsity squad battled the yearlings. The first stringers were on the offense the entire afternoon and when the whistle ended there was no hesitancy on the part of any of the players leaving the field.

Robertson had the following men working on the first team: Hutson at center; Captain Guthrie and Goldsmith at guards; Sims and Gordy at tackles; Burford, Clement and Hancock working on the ends. In the backfield, Garlington was calling signals; Talarfero and Fox were at the halves, and White at full. In all probability this will be the lineup to start against Tech on Saturday.

Another scrimmage is slated for this afternoon with the varsity playing defense against Tech plays to be run by the rats. This will be the final scrimmage of the week before meeting Tech on Saturday.

Scrubs Great Asset to Good Football Team

Do All the Dirty Work With Only Reward a Chance at Making Varsity.

Give him a headband. None to spare? Then weave me a wreath for his head. He has won that wreath, by all that's fair. He has plucked and tackled and played the game. He has gone in battered and limped out lame. He has lifted the varsity up to fame. He has made the varsity fast and strong. He has not the tackles where they belong. He has taught the forwards where they were wrong. And the sum of his aches and all his pains I shown as the fleeting season wanes. In the way the varsity lack field goals.

Thus it has been for years and years; The varsity how gets the cheers. The lot of the scrub is three long years. And that is the reason—foulish dream. That I nominate, though you laugh and scorn. The scrub for the All-American team.

—JOHN KIERMAN, N. Y. Times.

BY HANK BORKMAN.
The scrub team, the Black Devils, a group of unsophisticated duds, or anything that anyone wishes to call them, lead the life of a football team. There are few who realize the trials and tribulations that this team goes through. Often they are looked upon with scorn for not being able to play a higher grade game. But then someone must do this work and I take this opportunity to praise the scrub team of Georgia Tech and what it has done so far this season.

After the first month of preliminary practice, when the respective teams were weeded out for their respective teams, there are perhaps 15 or 20 men left over. Some of these men have never played football and stand no chance of making the team. Rather than deprive them of the chance of learning the game we call them the scrubs. Let me state here that this outfit is as important in the program of the success of the team as a whole as the varsity team itself. It is indeed, indeed, to the varsity without the scrubs, for it would mean taking possibly the third team, and this would weaken the reserve strength.

Been Every Opponent.
The scrub team has been every opponent at Tech this season. While Tech was playing V. M. I. the scrubs were watching Tulane play, taking down basic formation and plays run from them. The scrubs returned and grouped all the plays under the different formations. Monday the Black Devils put on the Tulane play as perfectly as possible. These were drilled upon for two days and Wednesday a scrimmage was held against the varsity. After the varsity came the second group and then the third group. Having boys who are very inexperienced in football it is easy to see the hattering and punishment that they got.

On Thursday and Friday an intense dummy scrimmage was held, and the scrubs were drilled on the defense that we would use. On Saturday they watched the game. And so it goes week in and week out, their only reward being a chance to make the varsity squad the following year.

In some cases a boy may make very rapid progress on the scrubs and be promoted to the varsity. DeLoach, who played fullback against L. S. U. Saturday was a lowly scrub at the start of the season. So was Bunch, a guard, and Lunn, a halfback.

I once again praise this team whose efforts so far as glory goes is never noticed. I hope their patient, unflinching perseverance will be rewarded in the game of life if not in football.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creosolium, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creosolium is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creosolium contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes in to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creosolium is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases. It is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist (adv.).

5 S. C. Teams Enter Stretch Undefeated

Bulldogs Face Hardest Test At Last of Tough Season.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Never before in Dixie football history have so many teams reached the week before Thanksgiving without having suffered some sort of "dip" that had definitely removed them from the championship contention picture.

In that sort of circle of the southern conference and without its borders stand no less than five teams that have bowed to none in the south, while one other has not yet defeated the conference. Georgia, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt and North Carolina State are unbeaten in the conference, although the Carolina State started the season by losing to Furman in a game that removed much of the glory that would have belonged otherwise.

Then in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association stands Centenary, of Louisiana, that has not only won through its own ranks but has trounced four southwestern conference foes as well. Although the Georgia Bulldogs have the lead in the southern conference chase, they have their two big tests yet before them. Alabama, a team that has had the "Indian sign" as playing ability as the Bulldogs for five years, must be met at Birmingham. Then, Georgia Tech stands before them at Atlanta. The element of the Carolina State has always made the Bulldog-Tornado battle problematical due to hard breaks that both teams fight so many for.

Great Tech Defense.
Plus all that, Georgia Tech has a defense that only one touchdown has been scored against in the south. Virginia Military institute, Alabama, North Carolina, Vanderbilt and Louisiana State were unable to penetrate the Tornado's goal line. Only Billy Bunker, of Tulane, turned the trick.

And what of Tennessee and Vanderbilt? Tennessee has overwhelmed all opposition save Vanderbilt, a team that in turn had tied Georgia Tech in a scoreless contest.

So a "tip-up" by Georgia in either of its two remaining games might cost them dearly in their only real championship chance in years.

Stadia To Be Dedicated.
Two mammoth stadia will be dedicated in the south during the next two weeks. Birmingham will open its new municipal athletic plant Saturday with Birmingham Southern and Howard, two of Birmingham's own, playing there. The plant will seat 20,000.

Thanksgiving day the University of North Carolina will dedicate its new stadium, Kenan Memorial stadium, which seats 24,000. Virginia will be the "Tar Heels' guest."

This will give the south some 72 more stadia with a seating capacity of 15,000 and upward each. A few years ago Georgia Tech was the only one with a field.

Death Claims Tiger Flowers, Former Champ

Georgia Deacon Dies Following Minor Operation in New York.

To legal measures planned at Madison Square Garden today to secure a match with Mickey Walker. Flowers fought twice last week, gaining a draw with Maxie Rosenbloom in Detroit November 9 before knocking out Leo Gates, heavyweight, in four rounds here last Saturday.

Flowers, 32 years old, is survived by a widow and one child.

KNOWN HERE AS "WHITEST" COLORED MAN.

Flowers was known in Atlanta as "the whitest colored man in the ring" because of his conduct during his career. He was always game and always fought his hardest. His conduct was unimpeachable and he was one of the most popular fighters the south has ever produced.

Born at Canfield, Ga., on August 5, 1895, Flowers spent his early days in Brunswick, where he began fighting. The story among ring followers goes that while Miller, back in 1918, sent Billy Hooper, well-known local negro fighter, down to Brunswick to fight Flowers, then an unknown, Flowers knocked Hooper out in short order and the latter came back with the word that Flowers was a comer and Miller brought him to Atlanta.

Flowers, oftentimes called the "Fighting Georgia Deacon," was a prominent church worker among his people and a member of the Butler Street M. E. church.

Once he was established in New York, Flowers kept going until he got a chance to fight Harry Greb, then holder of the middleweight title. The fight was 15 rounds, to a decision, and went the entire limit. Flowers put up one of the great fights of the year, but was so exhausted that he was unable to continue.

Then, on December 3, of the same year, he defended his new crown against the onslaught of Mickey Walker. The fight was held in Chicago, and went 15 rounds. Walker was given the decision, which occasioned considerable wrangling and a return bout was the outgrowth of the argument which followed the fight.

There was some argument over Walker's going through with the return bout, and recently the National Boxing association and the New York boxing commission ordered Walker to meet the Georgia ringster.

The order by the New York body was issued Wednesday and called for a bout within the next five days.

Shortly after that story clicked in over the wire, hearing the message that meant so much to this popular and game colored man, those same wires again carried a message—announcing his death. Telling the story of the passing of a great fighter and a good citizen.

For Flowers was that. He made a good-sized fortune during his ring career and gave a large part of it to colored churches in Atlanta and Georgia. He owned a home in Atlanta that is one of the most beautiful in the city.

But the followers of ring affairs and those connected with it will miss Tiger Flowers, because he was a square shouter and loved the white man and colored man alike.

PLEA IS MADE TO REINSTATE CALDWELL

New York, November 16.—(United Press.)—The Harvard Club of New York sent a telegram today to William J. Bingham, director of athletics at Harvard university, urging him to make another attempt to persuade Yale to play Bruce Caldwell, the game Saturday against Harvard.

Caldwell, star Yale halfback, was ruled ineligible last week because he played with the Brown freshman eleven in 1923.

No Team Selected For Rose Bowl Game

Los Angeles, Calif., November 16.—(AP)—No selection has been made yet of the team that will carry the colors of the west to battle the east's representative in the annual football classic at Pasadena on January 1.

This was announced tonight by Les Henry, chairman of the football selection committee for the tournament, commenting on an announcement credited to Alfred R. Masters, graduate manager of Stanford, that Stanford has been invited to play Mr. Henry said the decision probably would not be made for two weeks.

The invitation to the eastern representative, it is understood here, will go to Washington and Jefferson.

Sandlot Game To Be Staged For Leister

While Loren Leister, the 22-year-old boy struck by a stray bullet from the gun of a lawbreaker on Halloween night, grins grimly at death at Grady hospital, his buddies of Atlanta's sandlot league are carrying on in his honor.

Hospital expenses are piling up, and the boys are planning to stage a sandlot game for Leister's benefit. The game will be held at the Sandlot grounds before he is discharged, and the proceeds will be used to help pay his medical bills.

The two teams are the Peachtree Road Perriers and the O'Keefe Panthers, as brilliant a pair of 1925 sandlot grid machines as this section could put on the field. Every cent they raise at the game will go directly to Loren's family to pay his medical bills.

Use of the field has been donated free, tickets have been printed without cost and the expense of the contest has been taken care of by business concerns and sympathetic individuals.

"Stumpy" Thompson, Georgia Tech's great back, will be asked to referee the game, and other officials will donate their services.

Admission prices will be 25 cents for children and 50 cents for grown-ups, and the two sandlot league teams are expecting a big attendance in view of the fact that splendid entertainment will be afforded spectators and that all the proceeds will be given into the hands of young Leister's family.

Mercer Ends Hard Grind For Bulldogs

Only Light Practice on Books for Bears Rest of Week.

BY GEORGE CLARK.

Macon, Ga., November 16.—As the day draws near for the 35th annual meeting of Mercer and Georgia football teams, in Athens Saturday, practice becomes harder and harder for Coach Moore's Mercer Bears.

Today, under clouded skies, the Mercer squad worked as they are wont to do.

Early afternoon found the varsity in a heated practice against the freshmen—the first stringers were drilling against Georgia plays. Phoney Smith, gallant star that he is, was easily the luminary of the afternoon. The little Tennessee ran rough-shod over the freshmen. Any question as to his ability to score against Georgia seemed to fade into the twilight as Phoney galloped through for several touchdowns. Coach Moore seems well pleased with the way his boys are working.

Will be Fighting.
"We'll probably be defeated by a pretty big score, but it can be said after the game that there were 11 fighting bears in the game at all times," said the Bear coach, and practice was over.

Tomorrow and the next day remain for the Bears to get into final condition. And, with light work on the team for two days, it is very likely that the Mercer team will enter Saturday's melee in the best of condition. The only regular out is Buch Lauer, quarterback, but his shoes seem to have been capably filled by "Six" Salter, star back from last year.

Luther Ray, sophomore guard, who was out of practice the first of the week with injuries, has returned to the fold and will answer the call for duty.

The others on the first eleven are ready, lining up for Saturday in the following manner: Mallerd, Butts, rads; Nightingale, Pierce, tackles; Ray and Stipes, guards; Hammock, center; Wright, quarter; Alderman and Smith, halves, and Salter at full.

For children and 50 cents for grown-ups, and the two sandlot league teams are expecting a big attendance in view of the fact that splendid entertainment will be afforded spectators and that all the proceeds will be given into the hands of young Leister's family.

Concerning the Rose Bowl Game.

News comes from beyond the Rockies which arouses a bit of consternation among the supporters of southern conference teams who are on the highroad to success on the gridiron.

The news in question comes from Leland Stanford university and states that Stanford will probably be the team to play some eastern outfit in the Bowl of Roses next New Year's day in the epic intersectional clash. It also states that Washington and Jefferson will probably be the eastern team to meet the charges of Pop Warner in the great festival.

The final decision is yet to be made, but if it follows the lines of the prediction there may be an injustice done on both ends of the line. Taking the western situation for a moment. We find that Leland Stanford has bowed to two foes this season and has been tied by another. It was defeated by Santa Clara and St. Marys and drew a tie with Southern California. The Golden Bears of Southern California have no blemish on their record except the tie with Stanford.

Now to come east and discuss the situation. Washington and Jefferson has a great record to date, having lost no games and tied but one out of eight starts, but there are at least two colleges in the southern conference which can beat this record in every way by finishing the conference season undefeated.

These two colleges are located in the Empire state of Georgia and are known as Georgia and Georgia Tech. Their records to date are common knowledge. Georgia has not been defeated or tied, and Tech has but one tie against her record in the conference. If the Bulldogs can go through the rest of the season without a defeat their claim to the championship of all teams east of the Rockies (or west for that matter) will be undisputed. In that case where does W. and J. figure in the picture?

On the other side, if Tech can beat Georgia in the last game and thus eliminate the Bulldogs from the race her standing would be at least as good as that of Washington and Jefferson and Tech would have the added claim of having beaten Georgia, the wonder team of the nation today.

From this distance we may be missing the point. If so, we stand corrected in advance but the plain figures tell a tale all their own. And this tale cannot be refuted except by some rule unknown to your correspondent.

If the great Bowl of Roses game is supposed to bring together the greatest team of the west and the greatest team of the east then on the face of present figures the Golden Bears (even though they lose to Notre Dame) should meet either the Bulldogs, of Georgia, or the Tornado, of Tech, on New Year's day.

Georgia Has Best Record Of the East

Red and Black Must Trim Alabama and Tech, However, Before Season Ends.

BY WHITNER CARY.

While Georgia still has a very formidable rival—Alabama and Georgia Tech, especially the latter—to brush aside the title of southern conference champion can be placed on its head, the dome points strongly to the "Dream and Wonder" team being first under the wire.

All of which brings up the interesting question of whether or not the Bulldogs, if returned conference winner, will be invited to the Rose Bowl in Pasadena for the annual tournament of roses battle on January 1.

This great game, which has become traditional in the post-season conflicts of this country, is supposed to bring together the champion team on the Pacific coast and the champion team of the east. For the last two years the university of Alabama has been the eastern representative.

Some think the fact that a southern conference team had been the eastern representative on the last two occasions would preclude a Dixie team making the trip this year. Should Georgia come through with victories over Alabama and Tech there would hardly be any question as to which eastern team should represent this section.

The Bulldogs by a great conference record and a victory over Yale, an outstanding eastern team, will have conclusively proved that they are the class of those teams east of the Father of Waters.

But should the tournament of roses committee lean toward a distribution of invitation, the outlook would appear highly promising for either Pittsburgh or Washington and Jefferson. Neither of these two teams has yet been defeated, the only blemish on their excellent record being a scoreless tie played a short time ago.

The decision as to who will be invited has not yet been decided, and probably will not be until the close of the season. But in the meantime the committee in charge of the Pasadena contest could do no harm by closely investigating the claims of the Georgia "Dream and Wonder" team.
